Letters From American Readers

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:
May I ask how much regard the ordinary motorist and truck driver has for the "Stop" and "Through Way Begins Here" signs?

Some time ago when it was announced that certain streets were set apart as thoroughfares, and all streets feeding into these main arteries were to be equipped with "Stop" signs, many rules and regulations were promulgated.

At first police took excellent care that the signs and rules were obeyed. Now evidently few people care about them—sometimes, I suspect, even the officers on street beats are interested in enforcing these "rules."

I have occasion to use a car a lot, and so I use it rather carefully, with a certain regard for the rights of others. Yet when I am on Blue Hill ave., which is a "Through Way" I am constantly escaping speeding motorists and careening trucks that leap out of the side streets with no apparent warning. They seem to have decided that it isn't even necessary to sound horns any more.

What do these "Through Way" signs mean? Anything? Nothing? Rorby.

60 Airplanes Lost in Chicago Fire

Chicago, June 25 (INS)—Loss of more than $2,500,000 was sustained and airplane service out of Chicago virtually crippled when fire today destroyed three hangars and 60 airplanes at the Municipal Airport here.

Hangars of the Universal and Grey Goose airlines, and one of the two Stout line hangars were burned. The airplanes included 20 large tri-motored Packagers, each valued at $55,000.

NO Vacation?

Marble acute indignation won't bother you this vacation. But it is down—yes, you're not ready—yes, why better stay at home? You can be ready for sudden, acute indignation by having Bellows in your bag. Six Bellows, Hot water, Rare Refreshment, and the package at your disposal. Harnesse, prompt relief since 1861.

BELLANS FOR INDIGESTION

New Golf Course to Relief Crowding

Editor Boston American:

The municipal golf links at Franklin Park are, to my mind, the finest of their type in the East. The course is well kept and admirably laid out. The attendants offer every courtesy—in fact it is almost perfect.

But there is one great drawback, the crowds. Every day, in all kinds of weather, one may find a long line of golf enthusiasts awaiting their turn to tee off. Of course one must expect certain delays and can endure them but the situation is rapidly getting out of control.

On a recent visit I was obliged to wait fully one hour and a half before driving off from the first they give a profitable amount of milk. Then they are slaughtered and made into hot dogs and bologna.

Now were in Concord. See that pretty little cottage with its beautiful setting among the trees; see that great beautiful spruce, it must be at least 150 or 200 years old. This cottage was built and owned by Epiphany Wales.

Bull about 100 years ago. He experimented for 27 years and finally produced the Concord grape which was so much enjoyed, and which is such a beautiful gift to all mankind. The next house in where Hawthorne lived and wrote his wonderful stories—perhaps "The Scarlet Letter." That big square room at the top is where he used to climb the ladder to and through a treacher and shut himself away from the world.

The next is the Bronson Alcott house, and a little further up lived the Sage of Concord, Ralph Waldo Emerson, just across the road from the new building of the Antiquarian Society. It's lunch time. Mr. Hoover, aren't you hungry? Let's go back to the Grapevine Cottage and have a bunch of grapes—when they're ripe.

I am hoping that you will take such action in regard to our present situation as will place you among the really great Presidents of the United States, that your name may go down in history with those of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, Franklin, Thomas Paine, Patrick Henry and their kind.

GEORGE H. DERRY, Arlington.

Seeks Stiff Law in Gaming Cases

Washington, June 25—Five years' imprisonment for the second conviction of sending gambling paraphernalia and advertisements of lotteries or similar devices through the mails was provided in a bill passed by the Senate today and sent to the House.

Miner Defies Strike Order; Home Bombed

Scranton, Pa., June 25 (AP)—The home of Charles Girratano at Flitton, near here, was dynamited today, presumably as a result of the refusal of Girratano and his son, Charles, Jr., miner and laborer, respectively, to adhere to strike orders issued by the general grievance committee Friday. No one was injured seriously in the blast.

BYRD ON WAY BACK TO N. Y.

Albany, N. Y., June 25 (A. P.)—Admiral Richard E. Byrd departed today for New York.

The explorer, wearing the Distinguished Service Medal conferred upon him by Gov. Roosevelt for the state, slipped away almost unnoticed while Albany was going to work. He passed through the station, accompanied by his party and a guard of troops before early commuters had a chance to learn the identity of the slim figure in navy whites.

He rose early at the executive mansion, where he was an overnight guest, breakfasted with Governor Roosevelt and his family and hurried to the station.

Informed that Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith had landed at Harbor Grace in his East-West crossing of the Atlantic, Byrd, who has on his own record a transatlantic crossing by air, expressed pleasure over the safety of the crew of the Southern Cross.

Appointed Patrolman

Reserve Police Officer John R. Corrigan will be appointed to the regular force to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Patrolman Charles E. Beckman.

'Mystery' of the Sea Is Declared to Be Just a Sunfish

The fish that looked "fishy" to fishermen yesterday is a sunfish.

Take the word of Arthur L. Millett, state supervisor of fisheries. The explorer, wearing the Distinguished Service Medal conferred upon him by Gov. Roosevelt for the state, slipped away almost unnoticed while Albany was going to work. He passed through the station, accompanied by his party and a guard of troops before early commuters had a chance to learn the identity of the slim figure in navy whites.

THUGS' VICTIM NEAR DEATH

Raymond Wells, 26, president and treasurer of Brown & Wells, Inc., at 29 and 31 Kingston st., is 5'10" today at the Pauline Hospital, after he was brutally beaten and hurled from a 15-foot balcony because he refused to open a safe for two thugs.

The assault is believed to have occurred a few minutes before he planned to leave for his home at 120 Collins st., Waban, later in the evening. Dr. C. C. Lane of 10 Longwood ave., received a call from him to come to the office. Before he was able to tell the doctor any more he collapsed.

Dr. Lane notified police and removed Wells to the hospital. At the hospital, Wells partially regained consciousness and was able to tell police a few of the details of his ordeal.

Anniversary Observed by Pierces

Milton Doctor and Wife Mark Golden Jubilee on Beautiful Estate

DR. AND MRS. MATTHEW VASSAR PIERCE of Milton celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary yesterday at their home on Canton ave. Hundreds of their friends gathered to pay homage to this charming couple. Mrs. Pierce received her guests in a beautiful powder-blue chiffon and lace gown which was most becoming. Dr. Pierce was in a white flannel suit with yellow tie and looked very distinguished. All of the Pierce family, two sons and son-in-laws, wore yellow ties. In the morning, all of the family had a reunion breakfast. An elaborate supper was served in a large marquee and on small tables with gaily striped umbrellas, the grounds of Dr. Pierce's estate making a beautiful setting for a delightful party. In the afternoon, the Pierces' owned a cow, so for old time's sake, the grandchildren presented their grandparents with a handsome cow, which will be tethered on the lawn of the Pierce home.

AMONG THE NUMEROUS guests, we observed Mr. and Mrs. Robert Belmont, the lady in flowered chiffon and yellow hat; Mrs. Belmont, the lady in green dress, with her husband; Mr. and Mrs. Veldt, Mrs. Forbes in light blue ensemble; Mrs. John Hatch in dark blue; landlady Mrs. Richard Brooks, Mrs. Brooks loved in white—there was a great deal of all white worn—Roger Pierce and Mrs. Pierce, who was Ruth Elliot, granddaughter of the late Charles W. Elliot, president-elect of Harvard, and Mary Forbes, looking her best in rose-beige.

Miss Smith will have Miss Barbara Taylor for her maid-of-honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Bettie Sargent, Miss Doris Kincaid, Miss Thelma Torrey, Miss Virginia Walker, Miss Barbara Shaw and Miss John Lathrop. Ushers will include Ernest R. Noel, Jr., J. Everett Robie, F. Warren, Frank Richard H. Barbour, Richard V. Sherman, Dr. Edwin H. Bond, Norman L. Snow and Roger W. Hoffman. A reception will be held at the Neighborhood Club.

MRS. J. LEWIS BRESNAH of Chelsea is having a large wedding party for her daughter, Barbara, who is a debutante of this season.

MRS. A. L. WEST MOVIER, whose divorced husband recently married, is planning to go abroad very soon to attend the conference of Christian Scientists in England in July. The 27th of June is the sailing date, we learn.

MISS FRANCIS PORTER is taking a motor trip through England and Scotland accompanied by her brother, two daughters, Miss Ruby, who was married in a little while, and Miss Stille, who came out several seasons ago. The Misses Doreen and Mary are the daughters of Mr. Alexander Porter of Methuen St.

B. U. to Give Degrees for Courses in Homemaking

Homemaking has been elevated to the level of a profession, and in the fall young women will be trained in vocations related to the home and for the successful completion of such a course will be given a degree. Boston University school of education has connected with the Garland School of Home Making, the Chamberlain School of Every Day Art, the Prentiss School of Modern Dressmaking, and the Boston Home Information Center, and from the combined knowledge of these sources will come a necessary training in home subjects.

Experimental as it will be, it will in a measure answer the crying need for an answer expressed by the completion of a school of progressive brides, that they might be acquainted with the duties of housemaking.

The Home Making Institute will be directed by Mrs. Gladys Beckett Jones, who will make suggestions on general programs and to individual students on the choice of vocations.

When curricula are suited to conditions, the credit will be allowed by the school of education toward the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education.

Bible Study on Programs of Clubs

Massachusetts Women's Federation to Follow Lead of National Body

By NANCY BREWSTER

Massachusetts clubwomen are to take up a serious study of the Bible in the fall.

Following the request of the General Federation of Women's Clubs that the Bible be made part of program study for thoughtful and intelligent interpretation by clubwomen throughout the country, those of the Bay State have signified their intention of pursuing the subject with diligence.

The invaluable contribution of the Bible to literature, stressed in a circular sent out by Mrs. H. C. McCahan, chairman of the division of literature of the General Federation, will be incorporated in the program designed by the literature chairman of the Massachusetts State Federation.

Clubwomen are urged to make the study of the Bible an interesting and profitable study by being promoted among children.

In this present day of freedom much is left to the choice of the individual. Mrs. McCahan said: "He may take it or leave it, according to the will or taste of the person. Being should demand of all a choice in books, a choice which may prove productive of a higher significance of human life and conduct. This contact with the best in literature has a living value. It helps to mold thought and crystallize character."

Miss Phoebe Lee Mosher, chairman of literature for the State Federation, will take the General Federation message to the 150,000 clubwomen of the United States. While the Bible has been taken up by some clubs, it has never been urged upon all State Clubwomen, with such seriousness and solicitation as will be exerted on them when club activities start up in September.

World Friendship Aided by Programs of Y. W. C. A.

The Young Women's Christian Association in this country is co-operating, through the world committee, with the women of 44 countries in establishing and building up their own associations, by sending secretaries and money for programs, an announcement from the headquarters in New York.

Such countries as Argentina, Syria, Turkey, Greece, China, Japan, Philippines, India, and Ceylon, Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, and Mexico have American secretaries and as an example of the Y. W. C. A. from A. A. Maudsley, international worker, states that: "The success of the movement throughout the world realizes that it is only at the beginning of what is called international understanding and friendship."

Behind this program of practical service, says Mrs. Maudsley, lies the aim and the motive of the movement. It is animated. There are the creation of fellowship and understanding between women and girls of many different nations, churches and classes.

Mrs. Alvord Gives "Tips" to Club Press Chairmen

A bit of wisdom to local press chairmen throughout the country from the general chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. W. E. Alvord.

"Club press chairmen need to be trained out of bridge and refreshments into how the money earned by the bridge tea was spent; in other words, to headline the highlights."

She further states that "the publicity booklet seeks the columns of the newspaper to advance her personal interests, but the club woman seeks space to advance her cause; to keep her cause favorably before the public, to remove prejudice and to develop good will."

Wise words.

Course of Four Lectures Planned by City Club

The Women's City Club of Boston announces a course of four lectures by Mrs. Roland G. Hopkins.

Under the title of "Books, Their Contribution to More Vital Things," Mrs. Hopkins has divided the course into the following: "War Books; The Contribution to Clear Thinking"; "Henry I. Mencken, Intellectual Anarchist"; "Amy Lowell and Emily Dickinson, a Contrast"; and "Plays of the Twentieth Century."

The house committee announces that during July and August interested persons will be granted to members who wish to stay in the club house longer than the regular number of nights.

And November, with the place to be designated later.

Perhaps that phrase is one that women use most about their Arch Preserver Shoes.

They are not unmindful of the smart style, of the graceful carriage, of the untroubled countenance that Arch Preserver Shoes bring—but when they recall the weariness, the aching limbs, the painful feet they endured in ordinary shoes—they cannot help but place comfort, first.

Now that summer is here—with the extra burden that heat and increased activity bring—try a pair of Arch Preserver Shoes. Let the special, built-in features that have done so much for thousands of women do as much for you.

From Paris Bureau, Boston Evening American.

Paris, June 25.

A LITTLE RUSSIAN dressing will be added to the sartorial sense this autumn, judging by the Cosack tunics and coats we have already glimpsed. Whether this is due to the popularity of astrakhan, or whether the Russian influence has launched the vogue for astrakhan, we are not prepared to testify. Anyway, both items are pleasing and becoming, and we need not go below the surface.

We think that when the woodland tints of autumn add their rich beauty to the scene, you will be prepared to enjoy the very pleasing fur-trimmed cloth coats that will continue to move, to hold their own. Many of these coats will be available in warm shades of yellow and brown, lavishly befringed with astrakhan and other fur trim. We know this sounds rather like last season's bolero, but a cursory glance at the sketch above, with this cable will show you some obvious as well as subtle difference. All of them very desirable ones.

Black with brightly colored accessories for evening seems to quite fill the bill as at present, and when clarity and not too obvious or deliberately reticent amount of chic may be obtained, and a simple frock that has seen wear during the season can be made quite of the mode. For a dress of this kind it would be as well to choose a frock of semi-elastic material, such as marocain or georgette, simply but smartly cut and free from trimming or superfluous details.

Heretofore is a description of the coat mentioned earlier in this message. It is from the new Viennet collection and is of buff broadcloth, richly trimmed with brown astrakhan, with the Cosack influence quite apparent. The wide wrap-around front is pulled in beneath a narrow strap belt fastening at the side, and the flaring skirt stops about four inches above the wrist. The raglan shoulder is typical of Viennet's coats, as well as many of her dresses.

The Maggy Rouff evening gown of black marocain is extremely simple in line and detail, but when worn with vivid accessories takes on much importance and a vast amount of arresting chic. In this case the accessories include long suede gloves, a wide-brimmed hat, a kerchief. As to the frock, diagonal pleating at the waist, the bodice and skirt, and the flaring flounce is draped in such a way as to give the folds at regular intervals, giving a graceful and somewhat symmetrical effect.

It is from the offerings of Maggy Rouff. Diagram gives lead interest to bodice and skirt. (Sketched in Paris.)

TREATY DEBATE TO BEGIN SOON

Washington, June 25 (AP)—Senate advocates of the London treaty determined today to begin consideration of it without waiting for the special session which President Hoover intends to call.

This developed after word and came from the White House to the Capitol that the President would sign the signed petition of 23 senators for deferment of the special session until after the November elections.

Senator Watson, the Republican leader, announced he would approve a motion to begin debate on the treaty as soon as the Senate disposes of the pending business—the deficiency appropriation bill and the motor bus regulation measure.

President Hoover was said at the White House to have received assurances from a large majority of the Senate that the special session should be called. He will call the Senate together the day after Congress adjourns.

HUNT OWNERS OF RUM SEIZED AT IPSWICH

Ipswich, June 25.—State and local police today sought two leaders of a North Shore rum ring whose members fired a 45-foot lugger loaded with rum in an unsuccessful effort to prevent it from being seized.

Two hundred cases of choice liquor, destined for the "Fourth" holiday trade and valued at $25,000, are in custody of authorities. As much again was destroyed by flames that licked the rum craft while its crew escaped in a tender.

State Trooper Roland Chamberlain and Patrolman David Horne and Gordon Ewing made the seizure after the craft equipped with two high-powered motors grounded on Little Neck, near the tip of the town. Acting on a tip they went to Little Neck, saw the boat aground and started out in her in a boat of their own. As they did so flames and up from the scuttled and a crew went over the side in a tender.

The officers succeeded in extinguishing the flames after a time and from this information found on the boat began their search for the two leaders of the ring.

This was announced when the Senate unanimously approved a House resolution to move ahead the effective date of the law. An originally passed, the bill provided for creation of the bureau on July 1.

HAIGIS BOOMED TO OPPOSE YOUNGMAN

Retiring Treasurer May Cast His Hat Into the Ring Within Few Days

By HENRIETTA J. DOWERY
The first serious threat to the re-nomination of Lieut.-Governor William S. Youngman in the Republican primary in September is in the offing.

A boom has been started for John W. Haigis of Greenfield, who is voluntarily retiring from the state treasurer's office at the end of his present term.

When Haigis announced that he would not be a candidate to succeed himself, he stated that his banking interests would not permit him to devote all of his time in the future to political office.

THOUGHT "OUT"
It was because of this statement that the leaders of the C. O. C. did not get excited when Haigis was named. He was put in the position that Haigis would enter the political arena against William M. Butler and Elwyn R. Draper.

Because the treasurer did not definitely close the political door, however, it was assumed that he had some other office in mind which would wait for but a portion of his time and keep him before the electorate.

The lieutenant governorship appears to be the answer. It is known that friends of Haigis have been sounding out sentiment all through the state and that great encouragement has not their endeavor.

LIBERAL IN VIEWS

It is understood that he is favorable to a modification of the income tax and that he has other liberal views on questions affecting the nation, as well as the state.

The lieutenant governorship, which would have been a valuable point from which to strike at the office of lieutenant governor, proved a setback from which he recovered in 1928 when he entered the contest for the state treasurer.

An announcement of his formal candidacy for lieutenant governor is looked for by his friends within a few days.

Twist Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

THERE ARE 92 TEAMS battling today in the third annual Salem Country Club Invitational. Although the field is not as large as the Essex four-ball it represents some of the strongest combinations in this section.

A year ago, A. S. Browne, Jr., teamed up with Emory Stratton of Essex and carried away the top honors. This year, Browne has Clark Hodder for his partner, and again he will be troubled by a host of other contenders.

Along with being a fine golfer, A. S. Browne, Jr. is a very capable and a factor of partners.

Bill Grimes, Horton Smith and Leo Diegel will be seen in at least two exhibition matches in these parts within the week. Smith and Diegel are two of the outstanding players in the professional ranks, and still more important they are as serious in exhibitions as they are while playing in a championship event.

Frederic Wright, Jr., of Albemarle, and Jesse P. Guilford of Woodland, will take on Horton Smith and Leo Diegel at the Pine Brook Valley Country Club on Sunday, and next Wednesday, Francis Oulivet and George Young will match strokes with Smith and Diegel at the Winchester Country Club.

Although Pine Brook Valley is known rather than Winchester, recognition of the results of these two matches will be of interest.

In the Winchester Country Club, even golfers of the recognized ability of Horton Smith and Leo Diegel will find trouble scoring. Winchester is long and exacting and new hosts of the toughest finishing holes in New England.

Horton Smith is the most popular professional that has ever played his wares in this vicinity. He has a wonderful personality, is at all times, a perfect gentleman and one of the best students of the game. The game would be benefited by the inception of more Horton Smiths.

Although Leo Diegel won the Massachusetts open championship at the Walden Golf Club, two years ago, he is making his first New England exhibition tour.

Diegel will find trouble scoring. Winchester is long and exacting and new hosts of the toughest finishing holes in New England.

Due to the fact that he was the medalist in the Nationals at River View in 1924 and also for the year, Diegel will find trouble scoring. Winchester is long and exacting and new hosts of the toughest finishing holes in New England.

The Boston public links team which will compete in the annual championship at the Walden Golf Club, is a very capable and a factor of partners.

Joe Howe, who is superintendent of the Franklin Park course, said the public links golfers a nice compliment when he gave them credit for the excellent condition of the course. Joe states that in recent years, the players have seen the importance of replacing the divots and only on rare occasions do balls come to rest in bad lies now at the 18th.

The South Shore Country Club is printing its course for the N. J. P. G. C. amateur tournament scheduled for next Monday.

This will be the first time the pros and their amateur partners have taken their luck at the South Shore Country Club. From now on, the pros will be on hand to extend a hearty welcome to the visitors.

Diamond Pick-Ups

Charlie Berry was banished by Umpire-in-Chief Harry Gossel for questioning the official's verdict in the seventh inning of the second game. Smith was very bold but it certainly looked as though the ball Berry argued about was a perfect strike.

It seems that our Red Sox first baseman hit back when they pinch hit. Berry came to the plate with a swing as a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning. He didn't get a hit in four attempts. In the second game, Berry was hit down for the first time while Tilden came through with a very timely single.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 27 (AP)—Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, hoister of the light-heavy weight championship at 175, is in commission is concerned, but Alex Maxie, Rosenbloom, the boxer, has backlisted the fight. Rosenbloom, who is a popular ring titular battle in Bismarck Park here tonight.

Rosenbloom, whose bewilderment of milling has made him the favorite of the crowd, is a fast and powerful fighter, but he has no doubt whether he can cope with Rosenbloom, whose sole plan of attack is to throw punches from any angle.

Maxie hasuffed most of the previous fights, but he is now being slapped his way to destruction over heavy punches as well as the overworked and at first surprised himself the man to beat for the title.

Slattery won state recognition as champion of his division several years ago, but he has been beaten by Seaza of Buffalo in a 13-round battle. The state commission has ruled that the fight will be a titleholder the winner of this bout provided the survivor would meet

Ruggiello Pops in With Busted Duke

Salvatore Ruggiello, sporting a broken right hand, dropped in to say hello on his way back to New York. Ruggiello suffered his injury in the first round when he dropped Vittorio Chimpello, a contender with a terrific right hand punch to the jaw.

Ruggiello is one of the best-looking Italian heavyweights to come to this country in recent years. He is blessed with a right hand wallop which is sure to cause a sensation in the big fellows. Chimpello was in bad shape when he went to his feet but Ruggiello's right hand broke it impossible for him to get low up his advantage.

The Italian stated that in the third round blood from a wound near his right eye blinded him and made it impossible for him to continue.

Milk Fund Received $150,000 From Bout
 Mrs. William Randolph Hunt, as chairman of the Milk Fund, has received a check for $150,000 from the receipts of the Sharkey-Schmeling bout in New York. This money will enable the Milk Fund committee to provide milk for the needy youngsters of New York during the summer. A splendid charity, which has always been provided his right support from the boxing game.

This year's show was the greatest in point of receipts and attendance in the history of Milk Fund events.

Contract for Keenan If He Wins
 Frankie Keenan, referee of the fight, who has won the only two heavy bouts held at the Boston Garden this year, will be offered a contract to ride with the team track this coming Saturday.

Keenan's contract is one of the best made by any big race in the summer. Two years ago he was a sensation, narrowly missing the title. Last year he was riding top, but this year he is riding like a champion.

Saturday night Keenan must ride like the wind to win, for he will oppose Francis Thompson, a new track record; George Chapman, the grand old man of the game; Franz Duerberg, young George, and Vic Telford. This is one of the fastest fights that could be expected in Keenan and if he comes through he will have truly made good in his career.

13 Was Lucky for "Wild Bill" Mallahan
 In 1929 "Wild Bill" Mallahan of the St. Louis Cardinals did not win a game until Sep. 15.

GUS SONNENBERG, heavyweight mat champion, who played football at Dartmouth and Detroit University, will meet an opponent who knows just as much about the flying tackle as he does when he clashes with McCoy tomorrow night.

CY-CONFIDENCE

EX-CONFIDENCE BASIS TODAY

By B. C. FORBES

New York, June 23—Fear never won success. Who can deny that fear is rampant throughout the United States today? Fear is manifested in the excited selling of wheat, cotton and other farm products today.

Wall Street is in the grip of fear. Fear has swollen the ranks of unemployed. Fear has restricted normal retail businessmen have checked home building. Fear has not only stopped the buying of new automobiles.

D. C. Forbes

...fear is at this moment America's worst enemy.

Our actual economic condition is not as bad as our mental condition.

It is time for the ablest leaders in every walk of life to set an example of courage, not by being only, but by deeds.

In my humble opinion, there are three dangerous areas in commodities, in securities in raw materials, in merchandise than will be over the spring and many a month. This mid-year season may well prove to have witnessed the bottom in prices, equipment, grain, etc.

tion. The railroaders are criticized for having off work at a time when it is important to be on the job. The New York Times says: "Large industrial corporations have been accused of doing the same thing."

There are several "Wall Street" and "big bankers" are denounced. Literally by many it is said that "the patchwork conditions of the stock market could have been avoided had the bankers and the public been interested in maintaining the market." While the article does not mention that we know differently, the article does mention that the "bankers" mentioned in very widely harbored and are mentioned in our communication:

"We are professional operators in the short 'Penny' market. We have money and confidence, and we control a big market. We know why not close up the New York Stock Exchange for a few days and let people sober up?"

That the wild excesses of last year would lead to such conditions as are now being suffered would lead to further speculation that has gone quite far enough. The article goes on to say:

Let us forthwith start to register.

BUILDING HITS HIGHER LEVEL

New York, June 25 (AP)—Contracts awarded for new building and engineering work in the 37 states of the Rocky Mountain district during the week from June 14 through June 20 totaled $23,000,000, according to a report from the U. S. Bureau of Census. This was the largest weekly total in three months.

New construction contracts for the month to date aggregated $237,000,000, which was at the rate of $18,000,000 per business day, compared with $2,840,000,000 for the like period ended June 21, 1929.

New construction contracts of all types for the year to date is this territory total $2,275,000,000, compared with $2,840,000,000 for the like period ended June 21, 1929.

Mass. Bank Figures

Astonishing, and Satisfying

These columns published recently a summary of the extraordinary growth of the savings banks of Massachusetts.

The facts set forth caused, first, astonishment, and, secondly, satisfaction.

In the past five years the assets of the savings banks had increased $500,000,000. The per capita wealth of the State, as measured by the savings deposits, marked the people of Massachusetts as, perhaps, the most affluent in all the world.

It is an old axiom that the condition of the banks is the best yardstick of the material welfare of a people. And the publication of these conditions took the wind out of the modern Jeremiah whose constant lamentations were beginning to strain our good faith in Massachusetts.

Now it is found that what was said of the unusual expansion of the savings banks can be said in equal truth of our trust companies.

Five years ago, their assets totalled $1,280,760,948. At the beginning of the year, when the latest report of the State Bank Commissioner was completed, their assets had mounted to $1,775,845,471, an increase of almost exactly $500,000,000.

Therefore, two of the agencies through which we can best appraise the economic status of the people of this State showed a really surprising gain of a billion dollars in a five-year period.

The American Bankers' Association was confounded, it seems, when it discovered that the Massachusetts savings banks contain about twenty-two per cent of the total assets of all the mutual savings banks in the United States; that the average per capita deposit, including all the people of the Commonwealth, had increased from $350 to $500, and that the savings banks assets and deposits had increased the past year when other sections of the country were manifesting a decline.

It is a pleasant duty to be able to record the trust companies in the same category of sound growth. The people of Massachusetts can go forward with abundant confidence to maintain this splendid advantage.

Doctors Make Mistakes

Who Does Not?

In Sumatra a Dutch physician, administering the wrong serum to many children, killed thirteen, and jeopardized the lives of sixty others, of whom thirty-four were in a serious condition.

In Hungary a doctor treating children for eye trouble used the wrong eye wash, causing blindness in forty of the children. These regrettable happenings will be exaggerated and used by the ignorant in denunciation of medical science.

They will ignore the fact that every year thousands of children are saved from blindness by simple treatment at birth and the fact that every year thousands and tens of thousands are saved from death by smallpox, diphtheria, typhoid and other diseases that medical science has conquered.

Pork and Veterans

With the veterans' legislation up for action we are warned that we face a treasury deficit and a possible increase in taxes. It's always the way. We were warned that the soldiers' bonus would supply us with a deficit of $200,000,000, but it was adopted, and we found, instead of a shortage, that we had a favorable balance of $800,000,000, and a tax cut rather than an increase. If the usual pork were taken out of the rivers and harbors bills it would supply a full meal for war veterans.

A Woman

ONCE I knew a woman. She was an Italian woman and she lived in a camp on the Mother Lode.

When I knew her she was a slender girl, but one did not think of her size any more than one thinks of the size of a mountain or a river or the wind and sun.

She was taller than a man and had the strength of a great. Great thighs, wide feet, a great, seemed a part of the earth, they gripped, a deep bosom that had known much sorrow and a face seemed like a rock still as deep water.

She was very poor as the world reckons. She lived in a rough, two-roomed cabin. She had never been on a railroad train and she could read a few words. But I believe that here was the richest life I have ever known.

She did not live like the other life. Human soul. Life flowed through her. She knew her life. She helped to bring other mother children into the world.

When death came, whether it was by day or night, boots, clattered to her door and she went out to dress the dead that often she had helped to birth. Almost on any of these occasions she moved quietly, with an abundant calm.

There was a peace within her as deep and vigorous as the firm flesh upon her bones. There was substance to her peace.

She never talked much, though her brown, ringed ears were cordal to gossip. She did not nod to close. There was a mellow com-

McINTYRE ABROAD

By O. O. McIntyre

ON THE ATLANTIC, June 22—sitting at the captain's table is as much of an ordeal for the average traveler as it doubtless is to the captain himself. Those so honored must be at every meal precisely on time and depart only when the captain has finished and arisen from his chair.

Experienced voyagers decline such invitations even at the risk of a slight. The favored group usually includes an obese and doubtful Duchess, a couple of dreammakers from New York and the Mayor of Apple Gap, Iowa. People who enjoy the privilege are the sort who demand a box at the New York theater.

This barque has hit upon a novel method of handling the problem. Fifteen different guests are invited to dine nightly with the captain. And—surprise! surprise!—a flash-light photograph is taken of each group by the ship's staff photographer.

The photographer on this line incidentally enjoys a bigger income than the poorly paid captain. His revenue from photography is considerable and he is also maestro of the Punch and Judy show, the collection for which at the end of the trip is a sizable amount.

In addition he operates the moving picture machine in the afternoon and is the electrician at the concert performance at night. He is a harried little man—as well he should be—with a set and perpetual smile. And there is Mireille, a manicure girl. I must tell you about her.

She is a brunette with soft laughing eyes from Boulogne and is a passionately devoted admirer of Conrad Nagel. When I told her that the hand she was refurbishing had several times clasped the hand of Mr. Nagel she lightly touched it to her lips with an ecstatic gurgle. And I turned red to the ears.

Mireille—the spelling is guesswork—haunts Roxy's between voyages in New York to beat the oranges and hope for the sight of her dream lover.

Being a rather meticulous person my peart gray hat was carefully wrapped in a towel before casting off in New York. My wife reminded me, just now, and I thought it a shade sarcastically, the ocean was rarely if ever dusty.

Captain Rostron, of the Aquilina, once told me he had noticed that if the first two days of sailing were smooth there was little sickness. People acquired sea legs. For three days the sea has been like the proverbial mill pond and for the first time in six years I have not had the faintest touch of mal de mer.

Twice deck walking today I thought the lady-whose-voice-I-won't-mention was trying to speak to me from her chair. It may have been fancy or appetite but I hope she doesn't I am such a soft-hearted sinner I'd have to do a lot of rewiring and stick in her name. As though such a highly publicized person cared!

Henry Sell and I have been killing time figuring out the occupations of male passengers. One ponderous gentleman, with steady eye and shaggy eyebrows was guessed to be a financier—the sort who sits at a directors' meet, pounds the table and orders the chief engineer to depart at midnight for Tripoli to inspect the properties. A mere whim that will force the poor engineer to sell his home, take his children out of school, part his wife with her folks and probably be fired by cable upon reaching Tripoli. We indulged in such wild fantasies that we sought Purer Vittar, who informed us the gentleman was a bird cage manufacturer in Indianapolis, Ind. So I left Henry flat to do his own guessing.

Bong-bong-bong goes the dinner gong. Caviar, duck cooked in orange, crepes Suzette, and salad as only the French can mix it. A still-er life is the life for me! Yo ho! Copyright, 1930, McLaughlin Bros., Inc.

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

IF BEAN plants of different pure lines were grown side by side under identical conditions they would continue to grow to a number of different average weights. The differences in such cases obviously depend upon different average weight.

Commercial lots of beans will consist of the product of a number of pure lines mixed together; accordingly, if we start with an ordinary beanfield, and start selecting for seed-weight, using, let us say, the heaviest 5 per cent of beans produced in each generation as the parents of the next, we shall raise the average seed-weight of our stock rapidly.

But we shall do this not by changing the maximum weight of any line, but by eliminating the pure lines of the low seed-weight.

Of the many original pure lines we shall finally be left with but one, the one of the highest average seed-weight. And after this, our selection will cease to have any further effect.

Now there is a second kind of variation, due to the inherited constitution of the lines and independent of outside influences.

It is clear that the size of any single bean will depend upon the interplay of two tendencies, the inner and the outer. Its own chromosomes will be at work, tending to make it grow to the family size. The amount of sunlight and warmth and moisture to which it is exposed will have a modifying, controlling effect. And its final size will be a resultant, a balance of the two sets of influences.

Neither heredity nor environment is the more important—because both are essential. The best constitution in the world, of bean or man, would come to nothing at a temperature 50 degrees C. lower or 50 degrees C. higher than usual. And not even the best imaginable conditions could force a wild bean to yield seeds as large as those of a good African pigny grow six feet high, or turn a mentally defective child into a mathematician or a nothing at all.

We turn now to a third kind of variation.

Peace Brings Happiness

But Few Realize It as President Coolidge Does

MR. AND MRS. COOLIDGE—AFTER THE PRESIDENCY, PEACE

These pictures are taken from an article written by Calvin Coolidge for Hearst's International Cosmopolitan Magazine. Every American will be interested in these pictures.

The one above shows Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge in front of their little house in New England.

The other pictures show Calvin Coolidge at different times in his political experiences—in the Legislature of Massachusetts, as Governor, Vice-President and President.

More than twenty times Calvin Coolidge has run for office, and EVERY TIME HE HAS BEEN ELECTED.

In the article referred to here he writes "WHEN I LEFT WASHINGTON, I LEFT PUBLIC OFFICE. IT IS AN INCOMPREHENSIBLE BELIEF AND I HAVE NO INTENTION OF RETURNING TO IT."

The people by this time know that when Mr. Coolidge says a thing he MEANS it.

When he said "I do not choose to run," he said all that was necessary for those that know his character.

AS A YOUNG MAN IN THE STATE LEGISLATURE OF MASSACHUSETTS

AS GOVERNOR WHO HAD THE COURAGE TO FIGHT THE POLICE STRIKE

When he says again "When I left Washington, I left public office" everybody knows that he means it.

Many believe that he should return to office, being still young and in the prime of life and energy.

Mr. Coolidge would not, for the sake of comfort, or for any other reason, refuse the absolute call of DUTY. But you may be sure that, at this moment, his intention is never to return to the political struggle.

They have been through long years of married life, through hard work, through success and through sorrow, together.

The world may well congratulate them. Happy the man and woman that after a useful life find peace for contemplation, with the respect and gratitude of their fellow citizens.

We can wish for our readers, married or single, no greater happiness than good work, a useful life, with leisure toward the end to see and study the beautiful earth on which we live, and prepare for the more beautiful future for which we hope and in which we believe.

AS A MAN WHO—SOME THOUGHT—WAS SHELVED AS VICE-PRESIDENT

AS THE PRESIDENT WHO PUT A STEADY HAND TO THE SHIP OF STATE

At the end of this article in the Cosmopolitan Magazine Mr. Coolidge writes "I SHOULD LIKE TO BE KNOWN AS A FORMER PRESIDENT WHO TRIES TO MIND HIS OWN BUSINESS."

Fortunate the man who is diligent in his business, as Calvin Coolidge has been; who attends to HIS business, not interfering with that of others.

Those words by Mr. Coolidge might well be taken to heart by the Government of the United States. It ought to be a Government known as one that "tries to mind ITS OWN BUSINESS."

Unfortunately, just at present, it is a Government that is trying to mind the business of all Europe, seeming to lack time to attend to ITS business in the UNITED STATES.
